Finding Full Text Finder on the Library Homepage:

1. Full Text Finder may be accessed from the Library’s homepage. Look for the “Journals by Title-Full Text Finder” link listed under Library Resources.

2. From here, you will see a search widget. Enter the journal title. If you have an ISSN number, you may search by that, as well. You can also browse by discipline. To start a new search, click “Publications” in the upper left corner. Book titles may also display, depending on your search. When accessing Full Text Finder from a database, click the full text link that displays to access the source.
3. At the results listing you can select the expander icon to select the database that holds the journal or full text source.
